Caring for tomorrow.

Fondation Enovos was set up in 2010 by Enovos Luxembourg S.A. and is under the aegis of Fondation de Luxembourg, a non-profit foundation. It reflects Enovos' leitmotiv to act as a responsible company towards the current and future generations, in its role as an energy provider and beyond. An independent advisory committee assesses every project and decides on the allocation of resources.

Guided by the idea that the company must be at the service of humankind and society, the founders chose to contribute to the progress of know-how and technologies that make sustainable development possible, but also to engage in social projects that benefit the most vulnerable members of society who require special support.

Fondation Enovos thus supports the following causes:

- Enhancement and development of renewable energy sources in Luxembourg and the Greater Region,
- Active promotion of research in the fields of environmental studies and sustainable development by supporting scientific projects in the field of energy, particularly renewable energy,
- Social projects.

The production and reliable supply of energy are issues that play an ever greater role in our society. Fondation Enovos is actively following and contributing to this development, taking economic, environmental and social aspects into consideration.

Fondation Enovos : for a sustainable future

Environment

The world's dwindling supply of fossil fuels is hastening the need to exploit and use alternative sustainable energy sources. This is important not only to conserve supplies for future generations, but also to prevent climate change and protect the environment.

Through the nova naturstrom fund, Fondation Enovos supports renewable energy projects that are especially innovative, worthy of imitation or useful for instructional purposes. Projects can be initiated by private individuals, local authorities, schools, public utilities, non-governmental organisations or companies.

Research

Given the challenges society must tackle in the face of an increasingly rapid development, it is vital to display a sense of responsibility and openness. Research and innovation will continue to play an essential role by discovering new ways to improve our quality of life in a sustainable way. Fondation Enovos identifies and supports energy-themed scientific projects with the aim of finding promising ideas for the future. Particular focus is laid on renewable energy: research and the use of new and improved technologies are essential to find medium- and long-term solutions that meet both environmental and economic requirements.

Social

Human warmth is the most effective source of energy in our lives. Considering the fast pace of everyday life, it is important to think about those who, for whatever reason, require and deserve special support or assistance for their personal development. Fondation Enovos takes its social responsibility very seriously, and helps to create prospects for many different members of society. It supports projects to help children with behavioural problems, young cancer sufferers and their families, and sportspeople with intellectual disabilities, to mention but a few. The common idea is to stand by members of society who are vulnerable in general or at certain times in their lives.

This brochure was produced in a climate-neutral manner complying with the most up-to-date environmental directives.
